Napua'ala

Napua'ala means "scent of a flower" in Hawaiian culture. Beautiful scents can trigger pleasant memories of times past. Plumeria reminded me of my hula lessons when I was six years old. Pikake reminds me of my high school prom. Each of my fragrances evokes unforgettable memories for me. My products are hand made in small batches, using eco-friendly and locally sourced ingredients whenever possible. Napua'ala never tested on animals and paraben-free. Napua'ala is my homage to Hawaii's natural beauty. In Hawaii, we use the word "Pono." To me, it means goodness, well-being, natural harmony, and balance.

Aloha,
Lori Silva

What's happening

Napua'ala

Pikake or Jasmine an exotic, beautiful, and very fragrant flower aroma of tiny white jasmine blossoms of soft spices blended with white floral notes that excites your senses an the mind. Pikake, my most popular scent among Hawaii Locals.

Plumeria or Pua Melia, the yellow plumeria, offers soft notes with a sweet scent finish. Its aroma recalls hula dancers wearing their yellow plumeria lei around their necks and loose yellow blossoms in their hair.

Coconut Verbena or Niu Wapine sweet coconut combined with lime notes offers a nonfloral fragrance. It leaves a clean and refreshing scent that energizes and brightens you day, enjoyed by both men and women.

White Ginger or Awapuhi the aroma of the soft and gentle white ginger flower growing wild in the mountains on the islands of Hawaii.

Lokelani or Maui Rose, also heavenly rose, is Hawaii's Maui Rose or the pink Damask Rose. This Lokelani scent has delicate tea rose notes, with a powdery finish.

Gardenia or Kiele a beautiful large petaled flower, the most robust scent of the entire Napua'ala line. Scents of Gardenia blew through Grandma's home reminds me of her.
